Chartered Town Planners

Our new independent town planning company will work closely with our well respected and highly successful development land consultancy and our network of twenty offices to offer new and unrivalled services across the region.

Henry Adams is one of the few companies able to provide the full range of property development services throughout the south east region. With true vision, a wealth of experience and ability, Henry Adams works to unlock each site's potential however large or small. Our fresh approach, knowledge of the process and links with key stakeholders allows us to add value at every stage of the process and ensures that we deliver results for each and every client.

At both national and local levels planning policy is becoming increasingly complex. As a result landowners wishing to develop land have to find workable solutions to a wide range of problems before planning can be granted and it is in this area that Henry Adams excels. By demonstrating genuine expertise and an understanding of the problems faced by the authorities we can overcome a range of seemingly intractable political, technical and legal difficulties.

From small select schemes comprising a single dwelling to major urban regeneration schemes, commercial and agricultural development planning enforcement problems and planning appeals, the range of projects that we undertake is extremely diverse. Our planning and technical expertise has earned a solid reputation and operating locally and regionally we are able to establish and maintain excellent working relationships with the local authorities and professional consultants. Time and again our local knowledge has proved invaluable to the landowners we work with.

A new planning service covering the south east

"I've worked in West Sussex and the surrounding areas for over thirty years, originally as an Area Planning Officer at Arun District Council. This was followed by four years with a major regional house builder as a Strategic Land Manager, before setting up my own chartered town planning consultancy, Anthony Greenwood Associates Ltd some fifteen years ago.

I'm extremely pleased to now be part of the Henry Adams organisation and to have set up their specialist independent town planning arm, covering the south east"

"Henry Adams already offers an extensive range of property related services. As the partner responsible for development land, I could see the benefits for our clients, landowners and developers in having our own in house but independent town planning team.

Anthony Greenwood's reputation and experience is impeccable and we are delighted to have formed this association with him, with the opening of Henry Adams Planning Ltd."
